

古代日本の
「西の都」
—東アジアとの交流拠点—

The “Western Capital” Technology and Defenses Course B-1 Northbound Course

A citadel constructed by Emperor Tenji as a line of defense for Dazaifu, the construction technology of one of Japan's oldest waterways, as well as a group of burial tombs suggesting the use of ancient industrial technology, including ironware and Sue-ware pottery. This route visits the stories of “technology” and “defense” that served as the foundation for the “Western Capital”.

